

World mental health report

| Transforming mental health for all

Model network of community-based mental health services

This services model needs to be adapted to local contexts. Every country, no matter its resource constraints, can take steps to restructure and scale up mental health care.